REMEMBERING

JOHN ROBERT MELLON

May 26, 1978-August 26, 1994

"One Day"

One Day my life will be right.
One Day I will dream at night.
One Day I will wake up and smile.
One Day I will laugh for a while.
One Day my time will be sparing.
One Day I will be very daring.
So when this day comes, don't be mad.
Because One Day
I will be happy not sad.

— "Nicole Mellon"

On John's birthday, May 26, 1995, members of the Class of 1996 planted a tree at MHS in memory of John.

WELCOME to the 1996 TIMARON

What's your favorite movie this year? "Dumb & Dumber"? "Pulp Fiction"? Chances are the answer pops easily into your head. Okay, what about last year? Is it a little harder to think of? Wait a minute — it's coming to you now — "Natural Born Killers", or was it "Forest Gump"? Here's the real trick: what was your favorite movie when you were in the third grade? Can't remember, can you?

Can you remember who you sat next to in third grade? Who you played with during recess in fifth grade? Who you had a crush on in junior high? Those years are pretty fuzzy now, aren't they, and at the time it seemed as if you'd never forget those days. Just as it seems that now you'll never forget your years in high school.

Danielle Reynolds

Sometimes you need a reminder, something that freezes a section of time for you. You might remember the movie you saw on your first date; whenever you see that movie you'll remember what happened on that date. A yearbook can do that as well. Years from now, when you open your yearbook and look at the prom page, the STW production, or the basketball page, the memories of those events will come rushing back to you.

As you flip through the pages of this yearbook, many movie titles will jump out at you. Some will be familiar, like "School Ties", "With Honors" and "A League of Their Own". Others may not ring a bell — who starred in "The Graduate"? What was "Ladybugs" about? You may read the headings of certain sections and wonder, "What were they thinking? What does "Star Trek" have to do with social studies?" Hopefully you will read the story on that page and see the connection.

Or you may see the headline and it will register immediately: who else but the underclassmen could be "Dazed & Confused"?

At first, movies as a yearbook theme may seem a little odd. After looking through the book, the similarities may begin to shine through. The yearbook has directors and producers (that would be the staff), and it has a starring cast of hundreds (that would be you). A movies tells a story — so does this yearbook. It tells the story of the school year. It tells the story of the newest class — the class of 1999 — to enter MHS. It tells the story of the class of 1996 as they spend their last year here. It tells the story of all the athletes who worked throughout the year at scoring that goal or breaking that record. It tells the story of the clubs that make MHS a safer place to be, or other activities that grace the stage with music and entertainment. Most importantly, this yearbook tells the story of the MHS students, who they are, and what they do.

Strangers Among Us

This year we had many "Strangers Among Us" at MHS. We may not have known their names, but we knew their faces. We could also tell they were unfamiliar with their surroundings by the way they stared at things and asked a lot of questions. We learned to be patient with them while they experienced our customs. Some of these "strangers" were only here for a week, some were here for several weeks. Then there is Nadja who has been here for a year. Nadja Becker said "I'm a stranger and I can get away with a lot of things." At the beginning of their visit they walked around in confusion, but towards their last days, they blended in just fine. Most of the exchange students had traveled to other countries before, so they were pretty accustomed to learning how to "go with the flow." They all commented on how everything in the U.S. is larger than other places. "Here everything is bigger, apartments, roads, etc., " remarked Claire Chaipiny, from France. The students were not in America very long, but they will remember their experience here for years to come.

The exchange students from France were, (L-R) Thibaud, Delphine, Geraldine, and Claire. These students had a hard time understanding us because they were taught Britain English, but they spoke well enough for us to understand them.

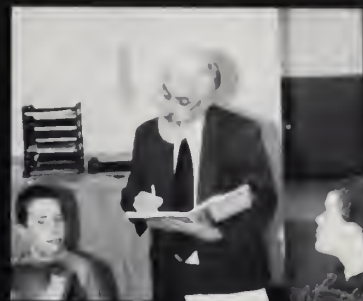

Luis Garvia, Marta Vega and Rafael Moreno were the students from Spain. Even though they were here for a short time, they picked up American customs quickly.

WITH HONORS

What comes to mind when you hear the words - "High School"? How About — "teenagers, work, teachers, discipline, reports, waking up early, four long years"... but most of all, "classes". Another term for those classes is Academics. This is the important stuff - the books, the knowledge, the things that we spend long nights slaving over. They include everything that we learn and study in class from our first steps into this building in our freshman year, until the day we graduate four l-o-n-g years later. In all, academics are the core to our success in high school.

When you look back on these days, you might recall whether you made National Honor Society, if you got a good grade in one of your toughest classes, if you got the winning touchdown at the last football game of the season, or if you were cast as the lead role in the Speech and Theatre or the Acapella production; but you might not always remember the important things you've learned and accomplished through your hard work and effort in your classes. Somehow, learning to write the good paragraph, what the atomic number for radium is and being able to solve for "x" doesn't always come up in our everyday lives. Yet in the four years of high school, we all have the opportunity to learn the basics that will prepare us for life in the real world - and the keys to graduate With Honors.

Behind the Scenes . . .

Mrs. Angie Rossinni . . . for 25 years, she has been the secretary to handle all the messages and mail. She also distributes the Driver's Ed. certificates.

Mrs. Lillian Hesketh . . . for 5 years, as secretary to the Principal, Mrs. Hesketh has worked hard handling work for Mr. Brooks and the finances of the school.

Mrs. Nancy Gammons . . . for 14 years, Mrs. Gammons has overseen the attendance. If you are tardy, being dismissed, or need to be marked present; she is the one to see.

Mrs. Joyce Cleverly . . . for 15 years, Mrs. Cleverly has recorded all of our grades to make sure the students received their report cards as well as performing many, many other tasks for teachers and administrators.

Mrs. Nancy Fuce . . . for 16 years, Mrs. Fuce has helped the senior class to prepare for college. If you need a copy of your schedule or a transcript, she has the answers.

There is a saying: "behind every good man, there is a good woman." Here at MHS, it should be: "behind every good administrator, there is a great secretary!" Working behind the scenes during the school year and in the summer are the secretaries. Without their hard work and extra effort, our school would not be run as well as it is. In recognition of their hard work and their commitment to the school and to the student body at large, the Timaron staff wishes to honor the secretaries of Middleboro High with this special page.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Take a group of people to an art show and listen to their conversation. Go to a concert, be it a rock concert or the Boston Pops. No matter what, everyone has SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT, and the music and art departments at MHS definitely have something to say.

As you walk down the halls of Middleboro High School, it's hard not to notice the murals that appear on the walls or some of the artwork displayed at the art show. Each picture has its own special meaning. Ask any student and they'll give you an opinion. When asked what makes art interesting, senior Amy Donadio said, "Anything you create is art." Foreign exchange student, Nadja Becker, also said that "Art allows form and expression and therefore, gives meaning." "Through art you can express, create, imagine and show yourself through your work," said junior Kristen Leary.

Often times, most of us think music as something we only listen to on the radio, but some of the MHS music department students say otherwise. Senior musicians Valerie Mack and Joe Faria both agree that music "acts as a vent for emotions" and, according to Valerie, "People who actually play music, see it differently than those who don't because people who play can understand the technical aspects of the music better."

Whether it be the singing at a concert, looking at a drawing of still life in an art show, or listening to the band at half time, everyone has SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT and more.

"9 TO 5"

A student's day may not begin at 9 and run till 5, but the idea of responsibility and having a Job is experienced every day at MHS. Although we start our day at 7:40 and it ends at 2:10; the Business department is trying to relate the school day to a 9-5 workday in the fast pace careers of the business world. Students who choose to take Business courses are receiving "the most highly technical program at the school," says Mr. Harridan.

Whether it's balancing your check book, watching a commercial on television, or just typing that term paper for Chemistry class; the business world is all around us. The principles of paying bills and balancing your checkbook are covered in Business Math; and accounting. In the Marketing/Management classes, students learn about the importance of a successful advertising campaign and evaluate case studies on the promotional activities of products. Learning how to format and present a professional document is what you learned in Keyboarding.

One class in the Business Department that affects to the entire school whether you take the class or not, is Marketing. The aspects of operating and managing an actual business is experienced in the DECA Store. Class members order the items to be sold, stock the shelves, and maintain the appearance of the store to appeal to the student body. "Marketing & Management are tools that can be used in any situation no matter what field of work you intend to go into. We learn fundamentals of the marketing mix and how to apply them through our school store. We take the roles of management (taught in class) to run a successful business" said Heather Wright. Working from the beginning of school to the last bell is just a taste of the 9 to 5 Business World.

REALITY BYTES

The reality is that we need to know our "bytes." Computer bytes that is. With technology playing such a large part in society today, high school students should be granted the advantages of instruction to using computers as a problem solving tool. Sophomore, Paul Gould says, "Well, in the future, computers will be helpful in communicating and organizing information." Our lab and classroom computers help to contribute to the extensive learning process at Middleboro High School.

In a recent survey, 15 out of 25 freshmen, 11 out of 15 sophomores, and 13 out of 19 juniors owned computers. Coming in last were the seniors; 6 of the 12 who responded owned computers. By comparison, 19 freshmen, 13 sophomores, 19 juniors and 11 seniors out of those asked owned an encyclopedia.

Sophomore, Ray Reynolds, says he learned how to use a computer when he was 13. However, the average age when students started learning how to use a computer was 9 years old; this is when many of them took computer classes at the Burkland School.

Although students use computers for many different things, the seniors had some ideas about how they would be used in the future. Shopping, research, problem solving, quicker and easier work and Internet access were just some of their answers.

DEAD POETS SOCIETY

Many of us today are searching for our true identity. We are all trying hard to express ourselves in every way possible. It may be the clothes you wear, your style of hair, or the way you talk that lets us tell you apart from the rest of the crowd. Expression doesn't always have to be physical; it can be translated into words in the form of poetry.

In the movie DEAD POETS SOCIETY a group of students gather together to read poetry of great poets or pieces they have written themselves. The poems all deal with what each person feels inside and is a way of coming to terms with feelings they otherwise wouldn't voice. For many of us today we are too influenced by our surroundings and we forget who we are because we are afraid to listen to the sound of our own voices. When we read poetry in English class we are exposed to the joy, anger, anxiety, frustration etc., that comes with everyday life.

You may ask "Why do we read poetry in class?" or "I could never write poetry so what's the use?". Mr. Zilonis says "We study poetry to become familiar with it. We learn something from everything, even a day at the mall." Its true that not everyone can write poetry; Mrs. Gisetto says "You have to have a muse, a little voice in your head that's creative." Even if you are one of the people who cannot write poetry that doesn't mean you can't appreciate the value of a good piece of writing. Mr. Zilonis says "Poetry sings and the song goes beyond the ordinary routine."

There's always homework to be done.

LEAN ON ME

Although Middleboro High School may not be an inner city school like East Side High, the same problems still exist in different ways. The guidance office at MHS is a place to go if you are in a jam or need personal help, and they are also there to increase our chances for a better future.

There is a great need for more guidance counselors to provide additional services. As Mr. Connell says, "It would be better to have a one on one service." The guidance counselors have been required to handle the responsibility of more than 300 students each.

The Freshmen at MHS are required to take the DAT (Differential Aptitude Test) and to discover their ability to Tech or College courses. Sophomores have to commit to their Tech or College courses, get involved in activities, and focus on their grades. Juniors have to take PSAT's and SAT's while searching for a career a college or further education. Seniors love to fill out application forms for jobs and colleges, for financial aid, and scholarships. If you need someone to lean on, the guidance counselors say "LEAN ON ME".

I.Q.

Do you know how to find  $[f/g]$  or how to solve for  $y$ ? Well, some people think that you need the I.Q. of Einstein to be able to do just that. Really you don't. All you need is a little help and maybe a few homework assignments from the Middleboro High School math teachers. Although math is required for only two years, many math courses are offered here from Math for Life to Calculus. While many students take three years by taking Algebra I and II as well as Geometry, most students find the thoughts of Trigonometry and Calculus daunting.

Mr. Thompson thinks it's really important to take 4 years of Math in high school. "Future tests that many students will take [ASVAB, PSAT AND SAT'S] usually have a section that is entirely math. Not having a strong background in math can really bring down the overall composite score. Also, most companies as well as the Armed Forces don't expect everyone they hire to be fully trained for every job they may eventually want. They administer a test and if the work requires any math at all, the math skills are what usually decide who make the cut. Students majoring in English and History can probably get away with fewer math courses but even subjects like psychology [which is one of the most popular college courses] involves a lot of math."

Stayed Tuned

We all know how to Stay Tuned to the T.V. In the movie, the unsuspecting parents got sucked into the TV and trapped in "hellivision." If you're a member of video tech, you may be like those parents and be in "videovision." Your life is no longer your own. Suddenly you find yourself spending long hours filming football games, soccer games, and town meetings, plays and concerts that seem to never end. Then it's back to the AV room and the process of editing and cleaning up the tapes. The video camera literally takes over your life. You might also get to take candid shots to go in the video yearbook and sometimes you even get paid for doing the filming. The video tech class members also work for Continental Cable and Ocean Spray. Another thing for which you may be responsible for is getting TV's and VCR's to and from the classrooms and who knows what. As a new member of Video Tech, Garrett Holloway said "I should have taken this before." Apparently He likes to Stay Tuned to what's happening. Here I come MTV!

Maybe the written word is of more interest to you. Media also includes books in the library and almost everyone goes to the school library sooner or later. It may be under protest with your class to pick a book for your book report or you may voluntarily sign in for a study. Senior Lisa Baptiste says, "The library is the most useful place in the school." Junior, Michael Sullivan says, "What library?"

So put your life on pause when you join video tech and you'll always be able to rewind your memories or choose the less traveled path and read a book from the library.

HEAVYWEIGHTS

Running in circles, playing sports, doing silly stretches and warm-ups. These are just a few of the things you do in the MHS gym classes. After changing your clothes, you head out to the bench press to beat your maximum lifting weight. Surviving the tedious workout, you retire to the locker room. There's more to gym class than weight-lifting and such. Freshman Melinda Pollock says, "In high school you have a lot more choices about sports and the activities you play in gym class." You are also rewarded with Mr. Green's jokes and Mrs. Freitas' whistling.

If you don't want to be sent to a "fat" camp, like the "Heavyweights" you can do exercises in gym. One of the things that helps you get through those sit-ups and leg-lifts is knowing that there is no studying or homework required. You also know that you are becoming physically fit and earning two credits! Get pumped with gym!

Health class focuses on the important issues facing teenagers today such as smoking, drinking, AIDS, and physical fitness. Freshman Lynne Remillard says, "Health class helps the students of MHS to make beneficial decisions in their everyday lives." Health class has sure come a long way from learning the four food groups and learning to be healthy helps keeps you from being a "Heavyweight."

WEIRD SCIENCE

When you think of Science, you probably have a mental picture of a little mad scientist in a white coat with white hair, running around making new formulas. Even though we don't have mad scientists, the title "Weird Science" could fit our science department.

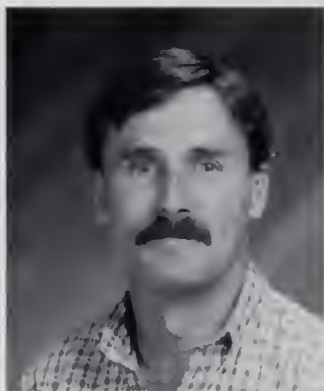

Then again we do have a new scientist who could very well end up having white hair when he is through teaching her. Mr. Jacques Duranceau has joined the MHS staff and is teaching Physics. When asked what he liked about MHS, he stated "There is a great effort being made to modernize the school." Mr. Duranceau was referring to another type of change to the Science Department. The department is expanding in technology, computer technology, that is. Joining Mr. Battis as a computer guru, Mr. Bowker, another scientist, "we are expecting to get more technology through the year." The computers will help students in labs by sending out probes and collecting data for physics problems.

Where? oh where? did Earth Science go? If you can't find Earth Science in the schedule of classes, that's because there is now an integrated Science course at the standard and college levels for freshmen. This integrated science course uses environmental themes in the areas of Earth Science, Biology, Chemistry and Physics. The learning done in these classes is done by "hands on" experiences. So maybe the science isn't really weird, just confused and changing to keep up with the times.

When you walk into any of the Shop or Home Economics classes, you definitely don't see anyone taking an afternoon snooze. Students are hard at work on the saws, cooking at the stoves, or playing with children.

"LOOK WHO'S TALKING, MR. MOM!"

Just like in the movies, children are being cared for by both moms and dads. Child and Family Development is a new addition to the Home Economics Department this year. Students are taught the basics of child bearing and child rearing. Mrs. Harvey, the new Home Ec. teacher says, "this course is helpful to those who intend on raising a family or working in a job that involves working with children." There are different speakers and field trips to day cares and kindergartens. The most outrageous project the students took part in was carrying around a sack of flour as a "child". The students had to either carry around the "child" with them or hire a baby-sitter if they had other after school commitments. This was designed to prepare students of the duty of carrying around a child. If you choose to take all of the Child and Family Development courses you will be OFC (Office For Children) certified. This will enable you to work in a child oriented job such as day care or kindergartens.

In PINOCCHIO, Gipetto made wooden toys for children in his shop. In our shop, students get to use their hands in building things such as shelves or small tables.

It's no wonder that students are so busy taking care of children and making cutting boards, they no time to sleep!

STAR TREK: GENERATIONS

The "next generation" of U.S. History students is boldly going where no generation of MHS students has gone before. A new course has been introduced to the Social Studies Department: Advanced Placement U.S. History. AP History is different from the normal honors course in a lot of ways. Students will be studying events from colonial times to Clinton's administration. Their main source of information will not be a text book; Instead, they will be using various primary sources, like diary entries and letters, as well as books like To Be A Slave, Hiroshima, and Night. The level of work in the AP class will be similar to that of an actual college course. Emily Stevens, a junior, says of the class, "I put a lot of work into because it's very challenging and the work is more in depth; It's not just answering simple questions, you have to look at things more critically." After completing the class, students will be able to take a test that may qualify them for three college credits. Mrs. McKenna, who is teaching the new class says, "The AP students are actually doing what historians do. This is great fun for me and a very valuable, challenging experience for the students!"

Are you a "RUDY"? Someone who has a special dream that seems impossible to achieve: someone who needs encouragement and a little help? Rudy wanted to play on the Notre Dame football team. Fortunately, he had a best friend who believed in him and later there was a priest who helped him find a way to achieve his goal. In the end his dream came true not only because he had the dream and the encouragement, but because he had the drive within himself.

Hopefully we all have a dream and the fact that our dreams are different is what makes for an interesting mix of students here at Middleboro. For some, just graduating from high school will be a major achievement. For others, the dream will be getting accepted into the college of their choice or having the practical training to be get a job.

Middleboro offers both the programs and personnel for any student who needs a helping hand to reach his or her goals. The term special needs is often seen as a label for a particular group of students and not for the student body as a whole, but we all have a special need to realize our dreams whether it's through an individualized learning program, help with math or reading or even accelerated classes that challenge us. Having special programs or having concerned teachers isn't enough to cause us to succeed unless, like Rudy, we put our whole heart and effort into achieving our dream.

AROUND THE WORLD IN EIGHTY DAYS

Phineas Fogg made it around the world in eighty days, but the Middleboro High School exchange students can go to France and Spain in about 10 hours and they can stay for 15 days. Phineas Fogg used everything from hot air balloons to trains to travel, but the Middleboro students go by jet.

Did you know that Spanish students go to school at 9:30 and do not return home until 4:30? Or that Spanish students cannot get their driver's license until they are eighteen years old?

This year Middleboro High was fortunate enough to host three Spanish students who will return the hospitality given them by having their student hosts visit them in April. If you are not really interested in Spain, then how about France? For many years, students who are taking French, have had the opportunity to visit Grenoble, France as well as being a host family to a French student. Melissa Wright says, "Being immersed into a foreign country really gets your perspectives straight and shows you how small the world really is." Mrs. Ledoux says, "Even the students who don't take a language course are fascinated by the different cultures."

DIRECTOR'S ASSISTANTS

What's the key to a really great movie? A great director — that someone who guides the actors, helps them achieve their best, and makes sure that everything runs as smoothly as possible. Imagine the school as one big movie. Our executive producers and directors are the administrators, the teachers are the unit directors, and all the students are actors. Just like a movie director, teachers need help. There's just too much that needs doing! That's where student assistants come in. Rather than sitting in a study hall, students can choose to become involved as assistants; maybe they'll help a favorite teacher, or help in the office, in the library, or in guidance. What do assistants do? Everything. They file, staple, collate, correct papers, run errands, deliver bulletins, wash paint trays, and if you're lucky enough to be a science assistant, you may even get to wash test tubes! Student assistants are able to give teachers time to do what they do best: teach us.

Cinderella

Cinderella worked from dawn to dusk cleaning and cooking for her stepmother and stepsisters. If you have ever had the occasion to be at school at a strange hour at night, you know that the janitors almost never go home. If you've ever walked through the cafeteria during sixth period, you've seen the cafeteria and the custodial staffs working tirelessly to clean up after us. It takes special people to do jobs like these.

The cafeteria staff is a very cheerful group of women who are always ready and willing to help make school a better experience. Whether it be through new, creative meal choices or taking part in Spirit Week, the cafeteria staff can always be counted on to be spirited in their work.

Working alongside the cafeteria staff, the custodial staff is a very supportive group of people at MHS. They are, usually, very happy to help out with anything around the school. Whether it's through pulling out the bleachers in the gym for the pep rally, or bringing a ladder to the auditorium to help out in a production, they're always happy to help.

The cafeteria and custodial staffs at MHS remain hard at work throughout the year as did Cinderella, in her legendary tale. May they someday find their fairy godmothers!

SCHOOL TIES

What do the words Activities and Organizations and School Ties have in common? We may be tied to our school because it's a place where we're required to go to learn. The movie story was about being different and yet it was a bad experience. At MHS there are many extra-curricula groups that help tie us to MHS in a different way. Every single student is given the opportunity to participate in this spectrum of experiences, meet new people, and gain knowledge. Speech and Theatre, Band, DECA, and Yearbook are just a few of the groups that work hard during non-school hours. Whether or not you let these opportunity pass by is up to you.

We all have the obligation to fulfill requirements to graduate. We have to take a number of classes, obtain enough credits, and be present during school hours. What we make of the extra-curricula experiences is what our MHS memories will become and the ones who were involved are the ones who will have made the most of their high school years.

POWDER PUFF '95

This annual game of Powder Puff was not your typical game of Powder Puff. The evening started off with everyone complaining about the cold and the fact that there were no cheerleaders. Soon all was forgotten as the game got under way. The score was zero to zero. Then out of nowhere, with three seconds remaining on the clock, the juniors made the first and final touchdown, making the score Juniors 6, Seniors 0. The game was over and the teams lined up to congratulate each other for a well played game, and Powder Puff '95 was history.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Imagine all the different leaders at Middleborough High School. Now imagine them all in the same room — working together toward a common goal. There's no need to imagine. It's a reality. Made up of four officers and ten representatives from each of the four classes, the MHS Student Council is the student leadership, governmental body of Middleborough High School. "I think it's good that we can have some control. We don't have to hand it all over to the administration," Sarah Jessop, Freshman VP said.

The Student Council serves many purposes. An important goal of our Student Council is to increase school spirit throughout MHS.

One of its biggest events all year is the annual Spirit Week. Held during mid-October, Spirit Week encourages students to get into the various dress-penny drive umphed again the pep rally, which recognizes all the fall sports teams, but especially football. This year, Student Council began a new tradition by holding a small parade in which all the MHS athletes rode on a float and onto the football field before the spirit game against Hingham. In the thirteenth annual spirit banner contest, the Student Council took home third place for their "The Sachem Spirit Wants You!" theme.

Members of Student Council also participate in new activities such as wrapping presents at WAL-MART, caroling at nursing homes and shooting hoops to benefit Easter Seals as well as continuing the tradition of "Flower Day" in February and attending various meetings with other Student Councils in southeastern MA.

Have you ever seen "Pretty Woman"? You know, that Julia Roberts movie where a rich guy picks up a street girl and turns her into a well-bred lady. "Pretty Woman" was a box-office hit, but the idea wasn't very original; George Bernard Shaw introduced it in his play, "Pygmalion", quite a few years ago. Set in Victorian England, "Pygmalion" is the story of a Cockney flower girl named Eliza Doolittle (Tara Hunnewell) who is brought home by Henry Higgins (Richard Wilbur). Henry is a linguist, and despite the protests of Henry's well-meaning housekeeper, Mrs. Pierce (Leanne Gabourel), he bets his friend, Col. Pickering (Peter Abren), that he can have Eliza speaking and acting like a lady in a few months.

Eliza gets her first chance when Henry brings her to visit his mother (Laurie Holmes) and her guests, Clara. Freddy, and Mrs. Eynsford-Hill (Jenn Butler, Tyler Stevens and Kassie Hartford). The real test is the Embassy Ball, and Eliza passes with flying colors. Of course as soon as he wins the bet, Henry is ready to drop Eliza back in the gutter where he found her. Angered by his cruel treatment, Eliza runs away to Mrs. Higgins. Henry goes after her, realizing too late that he actually loves her. Though he asks her to return, Eliza decides to marry Freddy. "Pygmalion" was a lively play, uplifted by comedic performances, witty and sarcastic remarks, and a number of smaller parts that added character to the play. "Pretty Woman" may have made millions, but will it last through the ages, will it be turned into a hit Broadway musical? In the words of Eliza Doolittle, "Not bloody likely!"

Majorettes

Being a twirler or majorette at Middleboro High School can be considered both a sport and an activity. All the girls practice in the gym everyday to improve their twirling moves and techniques. A majorette skillfully twirls a baton while marching and doing formations on a field trying to remember your routine and keeping track of the band members as well. This year's drum major is Melissa Wright, and the fire twirlers, who are unique to Middleboro, are Tammy Gerdin and Jen Rufo. After the football season is over, twirling continues on an individual level as the majorettes work to compete in a variety of regional, state and even national competitions either individually or in groups.

Everyone needs to belong in "A League of their Own" in order to compete, whether you're on a women's baseball team in World War II or whether you belong to any of the high athletic teams, be it football, swimming, wrestling or track, to name a few. Middleborough is part of the Atlantic Coast League which is made up of 10 schools, located in southeastern Massachusetts, that have similar populations. Most teams play each other twice, once at home and once away. If you are fortunate enough to have a good season and are the championship team in your league, you may go on and play in conference, regional and state championships. Middleborough teams over the years have brought home the championship banners that now proudly hang in the Masi Gymnasium or at the Burkland Pool.

Middleborough is part of the Pilgrim Conference which includes The Atlantic Coast League, the South Shore League and the Old Colony League. Swimmers compete on the conference level because many schools do not have swimming programs within the 3 leagues that make up the Conference. Middleborough is consistently among the top teams in the conference and has had winning seasons against much larger teams.

Governing the athletic programs of high schools in the state is the MIAA (Massachusetts Inter-scholastic Athletic Association) who represents each school and who sets the guidelines for the student athletes, the coaches and the inter-scholastic competitions. Belonging to "A League of their Own" has helped many Middleboro athletes to continue their educations beyond high school as members of college team and as recipients of athletic scholarships.

"Patriot Games"

Patriot Games? No, it's the Sachem games! Like the New England Patriots, the Middleboro Sachems have a lot of talent on their team. Even though they didn't win a lot of games, there were many bright spots during the '96 season. With a strong arm like Drew Bledsoe's, Callahan connected with his receivers effectively. Part of the offense's success was due to the offensive line. Bruce Armstrong protects Bledsoe almost as well as Ryan Beliveau protected Callahan. While Bledsoe has success passing to Vincent Brisby, Ben Coates, and Will Moore, Callahan has the option of passing to Erik Muirhead, Mike Totman, and Gary Goodine. Like Curtis Martin, Mike Cotton is outstanding in the running game. The special teams are what put both teams in good field position. Patriots receiver Dave Megget and Sachem receiver Jay Lopes are always successful in returning the punt. Both Matt Bahr and Ryan Carriero are outstanding in kicking field goals.

The Sachems are not only proud of their offense, they are proud of their defense, too. In order for a defense to be successful, there needs to be someone who can sack. Like Chris Slade of the Patriots, Alex Sepulveda led the team in sacks. Having great defenders such as Chris Richards, Mike Enos and Dustin Soule are like having Ty Law, Ricky Reynolds, and Willie McGinest on the team. There is also always someone on a team, like Marty Moore of the Patriots and Rob Davis of the Sachems, who may be quiet but help both offensively and defensively in a big way.

The Sachems will miss the seniors next year, but with the young talent they have, the Middleboro Sachems are assured a bright future.

"We made it through tough controversies and came out positive."

"FIELD OF DREAMS"

Being on the field for the first time is like a dream well earned. And for the girls who have been on the field for years it is like a reoccurring dream, well anticipated. The week before school starts is like torture! From 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. the team does drill after drill. This year they learned new ways to drive and push pass from those who attended Field Hockey Camp this summer at the University of Connecticut. "The girls worked hard raising money for the camp by selling candy bars and holding several yard sales here last June."

Although the girls didn't win many games this year (1-15-2) they did have tons of spirit. They were even voted most spirited by the Atlantic Coast Conference. Maybe that had something to do with the captains this year, Andrea Dixon and Leanne Tarkanian. Andrea was also named to the ACC and the 'Enterprise' All Star team. She was also voted the team's MVP.

If "A dream is a wish your heart makes," then with their heart and spirit this team will be on a winning "Field of Dreams" next year.

"We are going to try to get some more kids to camp, so they can work on their games over the summer," said Coach Freitas.

Coach Manny Pimental

"The Big Green"

Actually our team could be called "The Big Orange." Last year the Sachem boy's soccer team record was 1-17. Our young Sachem players gained some respect for themselves and in the league this year with a record of 2-13-3.

They started with a new coach, Manny Pimental, who is a former Boston Herald all-scholastic coach, and who has been quick to praise his players. On their October 31st game against Hingham, they tied 2-2. Keith Nye and Keith Horsman scored for the team this game. Coach Manny Pimental said, "It was a beautiful game. All 11 guys played their hearts out!"

Dan Boyle, Kevin Boyle and Joe Faria helped the team greatly with their speedy offense. Keith Horsman was able to help the team out after recovering from an earlier injury and D. J. Gallant was strong in defense. Mike Pelletier was voted as team All-Star and MVP. Representing the freshmen, Rob Easterbrooks said, "I had a great time and learned a lot but I'm not going to carry the water next year."

In the movie, "The Big Green" they showed that you need good coaching and dedicated players to succeed. That's exactly what our team did this year and building on their success, they look forward to a better year next fall.

"LADYBUGS"

The players on the girls Varsity Soccer team at MHS are very similar to the players in the movie "Ladybugs." Neither team had a perfect season but they learned that they could all have fun while they played their hardest and that everyone was important to the team . . .

This season the girls were very competitive in that they were always trying to be the best that they could while sticking together as a team. Soccer is a game where when one person wins, the whole team wins. Even though there weren't as many wins as they would have liked, senior Melanie Parks leaves the team as Middleboro's second all time leading scorer. Junior, Crissy Hannon, who won the team's Sachem Achievement award for her effort, and Erin McKenna, the team's MVP and ACL All-Star, will lead an experienced and impressive group of Juniors headed by Katie McIssac to a more successful season next year.

Many of the girls that played this year cannot wait until next season. They're determined to be more successful . . . Teammates, Ally, Katie, Melissa, and Kelly all have the same feelings about their team. "Though we did not win a lot of games, we still had fun trying." MHS Coach Costa agrees with his team and told the Middleboro Gazette "I honestly feel that we can make the tournament next year. It's time to take our next step."

"For the most part, our team got along."

"THE LITTLE MERMAID"

Once upon a time, in a highly chlorinated pool, there lived a group of MHS mermaids. The mermaids flipped their fins through long, strenuous practices, working to improve their time and the diving mermaids to increase their scores. They even put up with tinted green hair, and eau d'chlorine perfume!

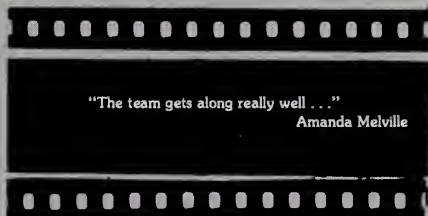

The exhilaration of soaring off the diving board or pushing off from the starting point gives these swimmers a great feeling of accomplishment. The mermaids may not have won every meet but they did a good job with a season record of 4 and 4 and a 4th place finish in the Pilgrim Championships which they hosted for the first time at the Burkland Pool. Many of them broke their individual records more than once this season. Laura Thornton was selected as the All-Star and tri captains, Kelly Coffey, Daun Purpura and Sarah White provided the team with strong leadership and were great cheer — leaders before and after each meet.

First year diver, Gretchen Holloway, admits that the practices can be dreadful, but she also says, "You gain a lot from swimming. It gives you upper body strength, self confidence and a feeling of pride."

Just like Flounder and Ariel, everyone on the girl's swim team seems to be the best of friends and they are continuously supporting and encouraging each other. Amanda Melville agrees that, "The team gets along really well, and we all work hard together."

And just like in the "Little Mermaid," the swim team leaves the pool with a happy ending.

"Chariots of Fire"

The speedy MHS harriers blazed through another year like "Chariots of Fire." This year's cross country team fared well, excelling in personal bests as well as in group endurance and determination to win. Sophomore Lisa Sullivan commented: "We never won a meet, but everyone's times improved at each meet and we improved a lot over the season." The team worked well together and put forth their best effort.

Not only did cross country prove to be more than a fiery display of vigor and a fun sport this year, it also helped prepare some of its participants for other up-coming sports. Senior co-captain Dan Makarski said, "I use cross country as a building block for wrestling." "I got into better physical and mental shape," said senior team-varsity member Jeff Morse,

"Keeping active keeps you mentally sharp."

Although the cross country team will be losing some of its members as they graduate, the other members anticipate a strong team for next year's season. Sophomore Angela Fleming added, "With a little practice and a lot of new excited members, we'll make a great team." The cross country's coach, Mr. Denise, has high hopes for next year. "I'm really excited about the group of kids we have coming back next season. They are competitors and, with a year of experience, they know what they need to do to make this team win."

The MHS cross country harriers of the class of 1996 have branded their mark for this year, but the "Chariots of Fire" don't stop there.

They'll continue to burn up the running paths as next year's team takes the reins and goes the distance.

HOOP DREAMS

The boys basketball team began this year's season with many unanswered "hoop dreams." Many of the players, as well as the coach, had goals to reach. Some wanted to improve on their shooting, dribbling, or passing. Some wanted to improve their record from last year. Others just wanted to make it to the state tournament. By the end of the season, many of those "hoop dreams" had been answered. Although the team didn't make it to the State Tournament, their play and attitude was outstanding.

With four of last year's starters returning, the Sachems had the advantage of experience. Senior co-captains Mike Orlosky and DJ Gallant provided the team not only with their leadership but also with their good skills. Josh Williams, also a senior, was a big contributor throughout the season with his inside plays. Kevin Boyle also helped the team with some huge plays and a positive attitude.

However, it was not only a senior team. Junior forward, Noah Coughlin led the team in almost every statistical category, scoring almost 400 points. This year's starting point guard, junior Pat Callahan, was dominating in both offense and defense. Another advantage for the Sachems was that everyone was a contributor. The second string, which consisted of Mike Lucas, Pete Farley, Matt Farris, and Steve Bowker had a huge effect with a lot of valuable minutes and points.

Next year, the Sachems will return with a group of hustling players, who will reach for new goals and achievements. They will also try to make new unanswered "hoop dreams" come true.

"As the fall season came to a close, there was much anticipation regarding this year's basketball season with hopes of qualifying for the state tournament."

"Hoosiers"

"Hoosiers" is a movie about a basketball team. Early in the season, the Girls' Basketball team went to Patti Coyle's house and watched the movie. Ever since then they have called themselves the "Hoosiers."

The Girls' Basketball team was led this year by co-captains Patti Coyle, Becky Dusek, and Chrissy Hannon. All the players this year showed tremendous team effort in each and every game they played. The two freshmen on the team, Jessica Cummings and Rachel Fuller, attributed to many of the points scored this season as did Chrissy Hannon and Patti Coyle. Becky Dusek was called "the chief rebounder" by teammates this year. Kelley Lavin, Erin McKenna, and Jackie Barnicoat have earned the nickname "The Berserkers" because of their tough defensive intensity.

On an interesting note, five sachems: Hannon, Coyle, Norvish, McKenna, and Dusek have surpassed last year's total points after only 16 games this year. Norvish and McKenna have already doubled last year's point production.

The Sachems had many accomplishments this season. Chrissy Hannon and Patti Coyle were nominated to the Atlantic Coast League All-Star Team. Patti Coyle was also honored at the Fleet Center's Good Sport ceremony. The Good Sport program honors Eastern Massachusetts high school seniors, who have excelled in their scholastic, athletic and/or community achievements. Becky Dusek was nominated for this year's Dave Cowens Award by the Sachems.

Although the team's overall game record was not high, all the girls walked away from this season better players. Those heading for college will be greatly missed, but there is a long line of players ready and willing to fill their shoes.

"It was a nice little twist. Kind of departure of the old and promise of the new," said Coach Perry after freshman Rachel Fuller led the last game of the season with 11 points.

Chariots of Fire: Part Two

"Chariots of Fire" will give you a pretty good impression of our track team this year. The indoor track definitely manages to have fun while jumping hurdles, sprinting around the gym and cafeteria, and quickly scaling the bleachers.

The coach of the indoor track team, Mr. Lawrence, commented that, "We had a young team this year; however, their hard work will definitely pay off next season."

This year it was undecided, at first, whether or not Middleboro High School would have an indoor track team during the winter season. It was not certain that there was enough interest to get a team put together. However, after some careful considerations and some veteran runners scouting around the school for new faces, it was decided that we would indeed have another season of indoor track! And it's a good thing we did, because Adam Park's motto is, "Life without track and field? I don't think so!"

Along with Mr. Lawrence, the rest of the team is also positive about improving themselves. Freshman, Brett Knowlton, was quoted saying, "Although we have suffered a season of many defeats, what we've learned this year will carry us onto a winning season next year."

Mounting the starting posts, they get into position. With the adrenaline flowing they wait for the sound of the starting whistle. It sounds and they're off. Water splashes as they enter the water with powerful yet graceful movements. As they race towards the other end of the pool they make sure their arms, legs, and breathing are in perfect syncopation, and with one last stride they touch the edge of the pool hoping to be the first one there.

Like many things swimming takes a great deal of strength, stamina, and commitment. Practicing at the Burkland pool, faithfully and with vigor, has paid off for this year's team. Six swimmers: Joe Matthews, Ruston Eastman, Tim Burke, Brian Jolly, Brandon Floyd, and Scott Burrill all contributed to Middleboro placing seventh at South Sectionals. Joe Matthews, Ruston Eastman, Brian Jolly, and the relay squad of Burrill, Matthews, Jolly and Eastman all had their personal bests at the meet. The team only lost twice in this season's regular competition. They also received The Pilgrim Conference Sportsmanship Award, showing they have great attitude as well.

So as many of the swimmers take their place on the podium, they know they can feel proud because their school and teammates are behind them all the way. The commitment, dedication, and achievements of this year's team are to be commended.

Congratulations to the 1996 Middleboro Boy's Swimming team for an outstanding job!

"Vision Quest"

Unlike team sports like baseball or football, wrestling is more individual. Each wrestler is part of the team, but when the match begins, the wrestler is on his own — just himself and his opponent. All you know about this person is that he weighs the same as you. You have to out smart him; you have to out maneuver him; you have to pin your opponent. Winning a match can be achieved by a pin or by points, and these points add to the team total. As the first female MHS wrestler to make it to States, Katie Gerdin said "It's challenging — but fun, just like another sport."

Like in the movie, each wrestler is on a Vision Quest. The movie's main character (Luden) wanted to wrestle the state champion. In order to do this he must lose twenty-three pounds. He does a lot to achieve this goal. He barely eats, and he exercises often to maintain his strength. At the match, he makes weight, wrestles Shoop and wins — fulfilling his Vision Quest . . .

Leading this year's team on their *Vision Quest were four year veteran captains James Treganowan and Dan Makarski. On the morning of each meet the wrestlers weigh in. If you are over weight you have one last chance before the meet to cut off the extra weight. To do this some of the wrestlers go without eating, or put on extra clothes to sweat off the weight. Their will power is really tested when they come to school and everyone else is eating. But the vision of winning their match is there so they withstand the pressure and at the end of the season, 6 members of the team went to States.

"It's challenging — but fun, just like another sport." — Katie Gerdin

Footloose

Being a cheerleader does require being "Footloose." The girls must be able to dance well, comprehend routines and have good spirits. The MHS cheerleaders posses all of these traits. Working hard during the summer, these girls prove their dedication and endurance through it all. Their spirit shines through when it's time to perform. This year the girls have conquered a big hurdle. After years of protesting, practicing, competing and cheering, the squads have made their point. This year cheerleading was established as a sport. They now have a recognized standing in the athletic department.

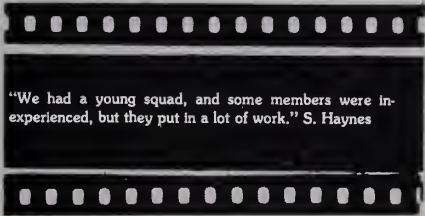

Leading the football squad this year were seniors, Megan McGraw and Julie Bowker. Other veteran members included seniors, Stacey Haynes, Kelly Souza, Nicole Perrault, junior Sarah Tinkham and sophomores, Gina Carriuolo, Jill Russell, Nicole Pennini, Michelle Barnicoat, and Lynn Bettencourt. They all worked together to get the crowd enthusiastic and cheering for the home team.

Even though the basketball cheerleading squad was a relatively young and small team, they got the job done. It consisted of five freshmen, Crystal Voveris, Amanda Washburn, Corinne Langlois, Sarah Thayer and Tara Hill. The other members were sophomores Jen Burke, Gina Carriuolo, Carolyn Dubrowski, junior Mindy Lucas and senior Stacey Haynes. These girls give it their all to get the crowd going.

There are some girls who are so dedicated, that they are on both squads. These cheerleaders put in extra time by being involved in both seasons. Finding the time to practice, perform, and still manage to keep their grades up is a hard task, but these members do it all with a smile on their face. Together, the cheerleaders are the true spirit of MHS.

Dazed and Confused

Being an underclassmen has its ups and downs. It's like being Dazed and Confused most of the time. Confused by long lectures or by not focussing hard enough in class to know what is going on around you. Dazed because even if you think you know what's happening around you, you often find out that you're wrong.

Coming to a new school, especially if you're a freshman, makes confusion inevitable with all the new teachers, classes, friends, and responsibilities at hand. Freshman Rebecca Douglas Said "It's not as bad as I thought but it's definitely different."

After a year of being a freshman, you can always be glad to move on to being a sophomore, where you are less Dazed and Confused. You actually feel like you know what's happening — until you become a junior. Becoming a junior lets you discover maturity, maybe? But now you begin to face the confusion of career choices, PSAT's, SAT's and the question "What are you going to do with your life?"

Dazed and Confused you remain until you're finally a SENIOR, you're graduated and you're OUTTA HERE! But then; maybe, just maybe it wasn't so bad being an underclassman.

CLASS OF 1999

You walk into a school of brand new faces. You ask yourself, "How am I ever going to find my way around here." After finally arriving at your homeroom you sit down and look at your schedule. "How do I read it? What are these classes? Where am I supposed to be going? And the forms. How many years do I need to fill out the same form to tell them where I live? Yeah! We're leaving homeroom."

After being herded around for school pictures and trying to figure out the complicated schedule, you are finally able to sit down for awhile and listen to a thrilling assembly. How thrilling can learning school rules be?!? After the assembly, hastily you grab your backpack as the bell for first period sounds. — but "where is my first period class and how do I get there?" Throughout the day you gather books to take home and cover while trying to comprehend everything each teacher has told you about the high school. After two periods your brain is full and spilling over. Thank goodness for lunch — you just might see one of your friends, but alas, you need to learn how to use the cafeteria. At least today there are no upperclassmen. Later you will learn that there are unofficial seats where freshmen are not supposed to sit. There is something about being the bottom of the food chain.

You are now so confused and exhausted; you are ready to cheer when the dismissal bell rings and as you leave you wonder what tomorrow will bring. It will never be as bad as this again!

the CLASS OF 1998

Being a sophomore; What does it mean? One of the most important things is to be more mature than the freshmen. For some people that is a tough task; for others it comes naturally. But what is being mature, although we don't like to admit it it means doing what needs to be done, whether it's studying for a test, doing your homework or reading that book for your book report. It may mean getting a job because in the near future you may be getting your license.

Being a sophomore means that you have to think about the future activities in school. You need to start raising money for the junior and senior proms and the class trip. Our class has done pretty well at this so far. We had a Burger King Night where members of the class volunteered to work behind the counter. Some of the profit the restaurant made from the people that ate inside went to the sophomore class. This year we also held the first ever Super Sports Night. Tickets were sold to the event which included unlimited miniature golf, tokens and more. We even got fed. Other fund raising events include the annual Bunny Sales and the class participated in the Spirit Week Penny Drive. Hey! We almost beat the Seniors.

One of the sophomore traditions is the choice to get a class ring. In early October, a man from NES came to get orders for the ring of your choice. By Christmas those rings were in and new orders were placed. While it is not as big an event as in the past quite a few of us got rings and now proudly wear them. We now look forward to the traditions of being a junior: proms and all. Then — can our senior year be that far away?

CLASS OF 1997

Being a junior at Middleboro High School can be considered one of the best times and one of the worst times in your career in high school. Being a junior you are now one of the upperclassmen and you have the power to make many important decisions that will affect your life and your future. A Junior has many responsibilities such as taking required courses, taking the SATs, and looking forward to further education and jobs. Also being a junior you can think "just one more year and I'm outta here." Many of the eleventh graders at the high school have the opportunity to get jobs and their licenses, which can be considered a step of getting older and being more mature. Another big event in a junior's life is the prom, and the big decision of who they are going to take, and what they are going to wear. The class of 1997 has a lot of potential and many people feel that we will all succeed in what we do in the future, and being part of the present, as a junior, many of us must carve our futures from what time we have spent at the Middleboro High School.

TO THE CLASS OF 1996

As the Class of 1996, you have chronicled the past four years at Middleborough High School between the covers of this book. For all to see, the Class of '96 has passed on to history the joys, the victories, the friends and relationships which are special and unique to only you. For those who did not make the journey with you, this yearbook may appear to be similar, if not identical, to others published by graduates of previous years. One coming away with that impression views the yearbook as a collection of pictures and text.

To those who have traveled with you along the path at Middleborough High School, each representation, each word recalls a vivid memory filled with life and emotion. No previous graduate will ever be able to experience those special moments which are now an indelible part of your life. As life is, not all that is recalled will necessarily be a pleasant or happy thought. For life is defined in terms of highs and lows. Without this dichotomy, you and I would never know the exhilaration and exultation of true fulfillment.

Having said all of this, it is appropriate also to say, this book records only a very brief period of your life. What you cherish among these pages can be repeated many hundreds of times in the days to come. Take from this personal history the internal fortitude to accept every future challenge as an opportunity for success. With this attitude, you will never look back with regret.

To all of you, the Class of 1996, I extend best wishes for a life of prosperity, a life of joy and most of all a life of fulfillment. Congratulations, and go forward from here with vigor and vitality to reach the destiny that awaits you!

Michael S. Ippolito, Ed.D.
Superintendent of Schools

As the Class of 1996 leaves Middleborough High School and prepares to enter the 21st century, it needs to realize the care, concern and commitment of the educational system that has prepared each member of the class. Elementary and junior high school teachers along with the high school faculty have contributed to your success and take great pride in your accomplishments.

Your parents have certainly played a most important role in encouraging, supporting and sometimes demanding your attention toward educational objectives. Your parents will always play a unique role in your life long after the influence of any classroom teacher has faded away.

Good friends will remain forever and new good friends await discovery. Being a good friend means that you are willing to endure some pain and discomfort in maintaining your relationship with others. Trust will become one of the cornerstones upon which you will build friendships.

Take the best of what you received from your teachers, parents and friends and build your life promoting education, strong parental involvement and trust among people.

Harvey F. Brooks,
Principal

Ronald H. McCarthy
Vice-Principal

"I would like to wish the class of '96 the best of luck. This class has been through a lot of triumph and tragedies and has always persevered."

Roderick M. Berry
Administrative Assistant

"To the class of '96, good luck in all that you do."

The Graduate

"So we must love while these moments are still called today . . . Stretching our youth as we must . . ."

As we entered our senior year of high school, these words seemed to describe what many of us were feeling. We had eagerly awaited this time of our lives; for years we have been saying "I can't wait to be out of school!" In just a few weeks, each one of us will be "The Graduate", ready to face our future.

It has become quite clear for some of us that this is not the end of our years in school; we will be going on to college for two, four, maybe even more years. Others will be going directly into the work force. No matter which road we take we realize that we will be getting our first taste of freedom . . . and responsibility.

At any rate, this was
 . . . our last year at MHS,
 . . . our last year with the friends we've know "forever",
 . . . our last year in these familiar hallways and classrooms.

Senior year has flown by, and sooner than we thought we are saying good-bye to our friends and to MHS. Hopefully, we have made the most of our last year together. When we are finally out there in "the real world", we must keep our memories of these days close at hand . . .

"from "History of Us" by The Indigo Girls

The overhead view is of me in a maze and you see what I'm hunting a few steps away, but I take the wrong turn and I'm on the wrong path; the people all watching enjoy a good laugh. I was much too far out all my life and not waving but drowning. I want to feel my Feet leave the ground, hear laughing as I go. Drive by Dylanings — You can have my isolation. You can have the hate that it brings. Smash me, erase me. You don't need me any more — God never listens — Stranded of this slender string, the minutes seem to last; a lifetime dangling here between the light and blue below.

Then and Now

It was our first day at MHS, no upperclassmen were around; we had the high school all to ourselves. It was a new school, with new teachers and rules. The rest of Freshman year was really a day to day experience. We come to school knowing we were at the bottom of the bottom — but we were determined to make our mark. We survived the year with the help of two faculty members that have become very close to our class — now Mrs. Brown and Mr. Gillis. Together these two individuals took charge of our class and became our Class Advisors. We went out and began building our treasury with the Bunny Sales. This was done both Freshman and Sophomore years. We also became known for our annual Candy Cane Sale and our Cookie Caper in December; but it seems we were more well known for our Car washes; faculty members have nicknamed us the "Car Wash Kings."

As underclassmen we raised money; as upperclassmen we spent money. We joined with the Class of '95 and purchased our class gift (The Honors and Achievements Board). Throughout Junior year the Prom Committee strived to create a Prom which was "A Time To Remember." Our Senior year brought everything anticipated — Sr. T-shirts, caps and gowns, yearbooks, the Sr. Prom, Baccalaureate, and finally Graduation. Breaking with tradition, it was decided that Commencement exercises would be held on a Saturday morning rather than a Sunday afternoon. As we look back on our years at M.H.S., we'll remember our teachers and certain underclassmen, but most of all we'll remember sharing these days with a special group of people called "the Class of 1996."

Colleen and Caitlin Smith

Erik Muirhead and John Putignano

In junior high our circle of friends expanded and school dances were the big event. Remember the 8th grade prom?

THROUGH THE YEARS

When we were young, life was as simple as sharing a sandwich or a popsicle or going to Chucky Cheese's for our birthdays.

WITH THE CLASS OF '96

THE SPIRIT

KICKS WITH '96

Jess Murphy had a grand old time blowing up balloons.

Setting up was a long process, but it paid off!

Mike Pelletier, Becky Dusek and Pete Abren.

Queen Leanne Tarkanian and King Alex Sepulveda.

What do all of these things have in common? All could be seen at the Junior Prom, even the pots and pans!

A TIME TO REMEMBER

Fancy dresses, tuxedos and flowers. Add balloons of silver, black, white, and emerald green, music and dancing, and you have the makings of a great prom, not to mention some wonderful memories. Everyone who attended the Junior Prom on May 20th created special memories. They'll remember with whom they came, how long it took for them to loosen their ties, hang up their jackets or kick off their shoes. Even where they went after the prom and what they did is now a memory. Everyone will remember the "crowning glory" when Alex Sepulveda and Leanne Tarkanian were chosen prom king and queen. As the night came to a close, we realized that our junior year was ending, and come September we would be seniors . . . The prom was a "Time to Remember."

Melissa Wright and her escort.

Julie Prisco, Caryn Colocousis, Michelle Blackwell, Nicole Perrault, and Yen Hurley seem to be having a good time!

"It's fun to stay at the . . . Y . . . M . . . C . . . A . . .!"

Katherine LaRosa, Tom King, Becky Schlack and Eric Huffman.

Thoughts and Recollections

Billy's favorite pastime was to hunt and his skill was unsurpassable.

The friends of Bill and John, and the Classes of '95 and '96 have done many things: "Wishing You Were Here" [PF]. A benefit concert was held; a poster of their favorite band (Pink Floyd) was put in the Sr. Lounge, and the Honors and Achievements board was dedicated to them.

Though John disliked the cold, skiing was his greatest passion; especially at Blue Hills.

Now that you are almost grown I look back and ask myself

Did I tell You ?

Did I tell you all that I felt was important? Did I tell you or was it lost in the shuffle of our everyday lives ?

What did I teach? Was it strong? Was it good? Will it root you in something real that will allow you to grow with a firm and solid foundation?

Did I tell you to be bold? To not be afraid of the unknown, but to live life to the fullest and meet each new experience with joy and anticipation. And did I tell you to be cautious? To temper your daring and sense of adventure with good judgment and consideration.

Allison

And did I tell you.....?
I hope it will be a good life!

Love ya!
Mom, Dad & Lindsay

Did I tell you never to never be afraid to speak out where you feel there is room for improvement? Work for what you believe , but work in a positive way within a structure of order and reason.

Did I tell you to laugh, to dance, to sing? There is a lot in life that is hard, but take it as it comes and find the good..... and make time to dance.

Did I tell you these things along the way? If I did , I am humbly grateful. If I did not, then you must choose for yourself . If it has meaning, accept it. If it does not, discard it. Your life is yours to build as you choose.

YEAH GIL!

We always knew you could do it!

Groundhog Day

Many students feel that living in Middleboro is like being Bill Murray in "Groundhog Day". Everyday you wake up and it's the same old thing day after day. "Nothing ever happens in Middleboro" and "I can't wait to graduate and l-e-a-v-e." are sayings that are heard over and over again.

Just about every student goes through the same routine. You go to school, you go to your after school activity, sports or you head for home. Supper and homework, next bedtime. The next day you get up and do the same thing all over again. In town you drive past the same restaurants and stores just about everyday of your lives. How many times have you gone through the intersection at Maria's, gone to the post office and Benny's or gone past Town Hall? How many times have you gone to Rich's, Victory or Dunkin' Donuts?

Yes these are the places that make up our hometown and many of these are places that support many of the activities of the public schools. Some support the football booklet or provide scholarships for graduates. Others donate refreshments for plays etc. And some provide ads for the yearbook.

Just like Bill Murray, students sometimes don't realize how supportive and friendly the townspeople are and how much they care. For some they only realize how much their homes and hometown means to them only after a horrifying experience or after they have left and gone elsewhere. In the end, Bill Murray realizes that living in a small town is OK and Hopefully, some day we will realize that too. If you're in one of the supporting businesses, a thank you would be always appreciated.

There are some people we call friends.
 Their love for each other never ends.
 There may be tears
 There may be fights
 But their relationships are really tight.
 They're there when your sad
 And when you need someone.
 They pull together when you lose a loved one.
 They share secrets,
 Every tidbit of their life
 Their dilemmas and their strifes,
 Knowing you'll give good advice.
 Friends so everything that they can
 And they try to understand.
 They might do things that make you mad,
 They do things that make you sad
 But there is one thing that you can count on,
 Your love for each other goes forever on.

Comedy Show

"The Potato Famine"

Sam Bradford

Have you ever been sitting in a dark movie theatre, covering your eyes as the vampire is about to attack? Or laughing until you cried at a Mel Brooks film? Then you know what it was like to have gone to STW's Little School House of Horrors or The Potato Famine.

The Little School House was a new twist on the old Haunted High School. Geared towards younger children, it had scenes from "The Wizard of Oz" and "Snow White", as well as the traditional mad scientist, witches' den, and dancing skeletons. The Little School House was held at the Lincoln D. Lynch School, and despite bad weather, the turn out was impressive.

The Potato Famine, otherwise known as the Comedy Show was directed by Rich Wilbur. Consisting of skits from such comedy greats as Mr. Bean, Abbot and Costello's "Who's On First", and of course, Monty Python, the Potato Famine was a new idea that is sure to be continued. As the lucky audience in the front row will recall, the skits were not only funny, but messy as well. Pie in the face, anyone?

When you go to a movie, you escape into a make-believe world. You're in a private place, separated in the darkness from reality and other people. In the end the guy gets the girl, good triumphs over evil, conflicts are resolved. The credits begin to roll, the lights come on and it's back to everyday life. Maybe we shouldn't look at the closing of this year as a movie that's ending, a good-bye; but rather as a new beginning. Imagine the next few years as a sequel. The same main characters but with new supporting cast and filmed in a new location. Like the movies, the sequel can be even more exciting, more successful than the original movie. Everyone will go on to new experiences. The underclassmen will be closer to graduation. There will be new challenges and opportunities each year. As for the seniors, some will head for college, some for the work place and some will serve our country; each beginning a new movie in which the ending is still unwritten. Someday, years from now, when you're feeling a little nostalgic and sentimental, you'll pull out this yearbook, rent the movies you saw with your best friends that last summer together, and relive the memories; because wherever we are and whatever our life may be, we'll always have a special bond as the members of the
